} Poem for

THE BLUE AND THE GRAY

Ly Francis Miles Finch

FRANCIS MILES FINCH has from his youth been a lyrical poet of note. He was bern in Ithaca, N. Y., in 1827, was class poet at the time of his graduation from Yale in 1859 and has been successively lawyer, judge of court of appeals in New York, college librarian and dean of the law school at Cornell university. "The Elue and the Gray" was inspired by a newspaper clipping to the effect that on the last preceding Memerial day the women of Columbus, Miss., had impartially placed fioral tributes upon the graves of Confederates and northern soldiers alike. The poem first appeared in the Atlantic Monthly.

Y the flow of the inland river Whence the fleets of iron have fled, Where the blades of the grave grass quiver, Asleep are the ranks of the dead-Under the sod and the dew. Walting the judgment day; Under the one the Blue.

These in the robings of glory, Those in the gloom of defeat-All with the battle blood gory In the dusk of eternity meet. Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; Under the laurel the Blue, Under the willow the Gray.

Under the other the Gray,

From the silence of sorrowful hours The desolate mourners go Lovingly laden with flowers Alike for the friend and the foe, Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; Under the roses the Blue, Under the lilies the Gray.

So with an equal splendor The morning sun rays fall With a touch impartially tender On the blossoms blooming for all. Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; 'Broidered with gold the Blue, Mellowed with gold the Gray.

So, when the summer calleth On forest and field of grain, With an equal murmur falleth The cooling drip of the rain. Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; Wet with the rain the Blue, Wet with the rain the Gray, Sadly, but not with upbraiding, The generous deed was done; In the storm of the years that are fading No braver battle was won. Under the sod and the dew, Waiting the judgment day; Under the blossoms the Blue, Under the garlands the Gray.

No more shall the warcry sever Or the winding rivers be red; They banish our anger forever When they laurel the graves of our dead! Under the sod and the dew. Waiting the judgment day; Love and tears for the Blue, Tears and love for the Gray.

SEPARATORS

In line with its established policy of always keeping FAR IN THE LEAD of all possible competition by further improving its separators every few years, the DE LAVAL COMPANY has just let out another "link" of superiority, which still further widens the gulf of practical efficiency between the DE LAVAL and the best of imitating cream separators.

Seemingly perfect as they have been before, the MAY. 1905, DE LAVAL machines are still further improved. runeasier, have lower-down supply cans, and LARGELY IN-CREASED CAPACITIES, all for the SAME PRICES as heretofore.

Miss Agnes Gertrude Keele of No. 326 Main St., West Everett, Mass., says: "About six months ago I had no appetite, no ambition, no strength, and in fact seemed to be generally all run down and worn out, and my physician advised me to give up working and take a few months' vacation, but as this would necessitate giving up my position as stenographer for one of Boston's leading wholesale houses, I did not care to do that; but one day a friend of mine advised me to take "Bloodine," as it had built her up and given her a good appetite. In fact, she said she picked right up from almost the first dose; so I finally tried it, and it did just as she said it would. It gave me a good appetite, strength and energy, and I shall recommend it to all my friends. Mail orders filled promptly.

Absentmindedness. The best instance I know is that of an amiable Irish judge, now no longer on the bench. Among other amusing tales told of him it is said that on the occasion of a "bar dinner" he went upstairs to dress, but did not reappear. The company sat patiently for some time till at length, just as their hunger was getting the better of their manners and an emissary was being dispatched to hunt up the missing judge, his lord ship appeared and explained, with many apologies, that, imagining he was retiring for the night, he had undressed and got into bed. After an hour's snooze it suddenly struck him that he had not yet dined, on which he hurried down to his guests. -London Spectator.

Queen Victoria's Wit.

In a biography of Leech, the painter, who at one time acted as drawing master to Queen Victoria, Mr. W. P. Frith relates an amusing story, illustrating her majesty's wit. One day in the course of a lesson the queen let her pencil fall to the ground. Both master and pupil stooped at the same moment to pick it up, when, to the horror of Leech, there was a collision, the master's (1205 head striking that of his royal pupil. Before he could stammer out an apology, however, the queen, smiling, said: "Well, Mr. Leech, if we bring our heads together in this way I ought to improve rapidly."

Reciprocity.

As the desire to give advice to all 10.20 persons and upon all occasions seems to be natural to most human beings, the following story told of a well known woman writer may not be without interest: While speaking at a working girls' club a writer of successful novels asked the members how much they earned and advised them to put aside a certain amount each week from their wages. A few nights later the novelist's doorbell rang, and one of the members of the club presented herself. She had come to ask what the income of her late adviser was and to suggest what percentage of the same ought to be put in the bank.

The Innocent Bottle. By the side of a certain portion of a suburban railway stands a glue Millitary College of the State of Vt factory which sometimes gives out a particularly offensive smell. A lady who was obliged to travel on this line quite often always carried with her a bottle of lavender salts. One morning an old farmer took the seat beside her. As the train neared the factory the lady opened her bottle of salts. Soon the whole car was filled with the horrible odor of the glue. The factor of the salts of the lue. The old farmer put up with as long as he could. Then she shouted, "Madam, would you mind puttin' the cork in that 'ere bottle?" -Chicago News.

Quotations on the Leading Products In Demand

Boston, June 12.-Butter has been in heavy receipt, and the market is cusier and somewhat lower for the week. Northern creamery, 211/2@221/20; western, 21@22c; dairy, 19@21c.

Old cheese is well sold up, only a little stock being left, for which holders are asking fancy prices. New cheese is coming forward quite freely and. though the quality is improving, prices are easy. New York state, 10@11c: Vermont twins, 9@10c; old cheese, 13 @1435c.

Eggs hold steady for all choice lots, with only a moderate supply, though ordinary grades are offering freely. Choice nearby, 21@22c; eastern, 19@ 20c; western, 176118c.

Beans are very firm with an upward tendency, though prices are not yet quotably changed. Carload lots, pen, $1.80@1.85; medium, $2.10@2.15; yellow eyes, $2.10@2.15; red kidneys, $2.85@ 2.90; California small white. $2.25% 2.60; jobbing prices, 10@15c higher.

The unseasonable weather has made business dull in the local wholesale fruit and vegetable market. Offerings have been plenty, as a rule, but asparagus and butter beans have been scarce, and there were none too many cabbages. Prices have moved up and down, but taken as a whole, the leve! is slightly lower.

Receipts of apricots, peaches and plums from California have been large. The quality of these fruits is said to be unusually good for this time of year. Stocks of old potatoes have decreased, and prices are firmer. There is a steady demand for new potatoes of good size and quality. Native peas have reached the market, but are held at high prices. Asparagus sells well, and choice green cucumbers do not remain long in receivers' hands. Fancy tomatoes are scarce, but there is plenty of poor stuff. The market is overstocked with onions, and Bermudas are so poor that dealers are forced to sell them cheaply. Turnips are firm. The call for marrow squashes is very draggy. Offerings of string beans are irregular, both as to quality and condition; choice stock is high, but there are a good many lots that have to go at what they will bring.
